Reserve Textbook Collection
The Library is happy to announce that we have a new website showing the materials on our Reserve Shelf. Visit the site at: Bloomington Course Reserves.

Faculty, please visit this website and click on the tab(s) for the course(s) you teach.
- If everything looks correct, you do not need to do anything.
- If anything needs to be updated or changed, please let us know ASAP at BL-Library@ivytech.edu

Math-Internationalization Kick-Off Celebration
Please join us in the Library on Thursday, August 23rd, between 2:00 and 3:30pm for Global Adventures in Africa, the birthplace of mankind! As part of Welcome Week, we will kick off the Math-Internationalization project for Fall 2018 with artifacts from Africa, displays and activities along with a panel discussion scheduled to start around 2:30pm. Panelists will include Dr. Betty Dlamini from the African Studies Program at IU and Ivy Tech faculty Dr. Pierre Atchade, Dr. Sydney Mmadi, and Sam Teye.

This project was created by Dr. Carmen Paniagua with the goal of connecting mathematics with diverse populations. We focus on different countries and geographical areas each semester. During Fall 2018, we will learn about South Africa, Benin, Malawi, Ghana, Burkina Faso, Kenya, Tanzania, and other African countries. The project will culminate with the Carbon Footprint Challenge later in the semester. Come and learn about the cultures and people with whom we share this planet.

For more information about this project, visit Dr. Paniagua’s website at: https://library.ivytech.edu/Bloomington-Internationalization-Math

Schedule Instruction Now
Would you like to have a librarian visit your class to provide library instruction to your students? We have an abundance of quality, academic online resources that we can share with your classes.

Please use the form on the Faculty Resources page at: https://library.ivytech.edu/BloomingtonFaculty to schedule your session now.